Let's get this over with

This campaign must be brought to a swift and effective conclusion with the least amount of Nepali blood shed.

Emergencies are not pretty. In 1975-77, Indian democracy suffered one as Indira Gandhi and her son Sanjay used it to try to eliminate all Nepalis.

Here in Nepal, civil society, media, human rights organisations and the intelligentsia must understand if they can ever hope to understand this kind of police state, they cannot hope to understand the Nepalese reality just begun: they can only try to live with it for as long as it lasts. The lessons of the past must be heeded, the tables must be turned, and the country must be saved.

However, all this is easier said than done. The Nepalese army is a brutal instrument of state control, and it is the only force in the country capable of delivering justice. The government must now act decisively to disarm the rebels and get them to surrender, rather than to eliminate them. The army can only neutralise the Maoists, it cannot defeat them. Why?

The way the country took to the path towards a violent solution is a result of the government's failure to address the underlying causes of the conflict. The government's lack of commitment to a political solution, its failure to address the demands of the people, and its failure to engage the Maoists in a meaningful dialogue are all contributing factors to the current crisis.

The government must now act decisively to disarm the rebels and get them to surrender, rather than to eliminate them. The army can only neutralise the Maoists, it cannot defeat them. Why?

The world's most reliable
Computer

electronic power supply

Legendary Reliability

adjustable option switches

Quick Recharge after power outages

Communication interface port (autoshutdown for all major desktop OS)

EMI/RFI filters for noise filtration

compact design with surge protected

IBM, NEC and Novell

Recommended by Microsoft,

The world's most reliable

computer

electronic power supply

adjustable option switches

Quick Recharge after power outages

Communication interface port (autoshutdown for all major desktop OS)

EMI/RFI filters for noise filtration

compact design with surge protected

IBM, NEC and Novell

Recommended by Microsoft,

The world's most reliable

computer

electronic power supply

adjustable option switches

Quick Recharge after power outages

Communication interface port (autoshutdown for all major desktop OS)

EMI/RFI filters for noise filtration

compact design with surge protected

IBM, NEC and Novell

Recommended by Microsoft,

The world's most reliable

computer

electronic power supply

adjustable option switches

Quick Recharge after power outages

Communication interface port (autoshutdown for all major desktop OS)

EMI/RFI filters for noise filtration

compact design with surge protected

IBM, NEC and Novell

Recommended by Microsoft,
This time it is nothing less than the future of our freedoms that is at stake.

Interview

Krishna P Sapkota is the elected chairman of the Development Committee of Kavre. A staunch UML activist, Sapkota believes that the government has the vision and commitment to take Nepal forward. He believes the future lies in local self-government and genuine participation of the people in shaping their own destiny.

Sudan Bista

How is the Maoist movement affecting development in Kavre? What are the reasons behind Maoists’ activities that are hampering development in the area? Could true decentralisation also be the solution to the Maoists’ problems?

Prachanda Prapal

Sudan Bista: The Maoist movement has affected development in Kavre. Despite the recent end to the war, the Maoists continue to operate in some areas. Their activities have hindered development efforts.

How is the Maoist movement affecting development in Kavre? What are the reasons behind Maoists’ activities that are hampering development in the area? Could true decentralisation also be the solution to the Maoists’ problems?

Sudan Bista: The Maoist movement has affected development in Kavre. Despite the recent end to the war, the Maoists continue to operate in some areas. Their activities have hindered development efforts.

Prachanda Prapal: True decentralisation can help address the issues faced by the people. It can provide the necessary support and resources needed to combat the Maoists. However, the government has not taken adequate steps to implement true decentralisation.

It is clear now that the Maoists took another of the Great Leap Forward. They made plans to create a country that would be a model for the rest of South Asia. The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive.

The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive. This is evident in the recent events in Afghanistan, where the Taliban has been able to seize power again.

The comments and observations of Kavre-based NGOs, like the Human Rights Commission, are critical in understanding the situation. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

It is important that the government takes note of the comments and observations of NGOs. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

Sudan Bista: The Maoist movement has affected development in Kavre. Despite the recent end to the war, the Maoists continue to operate in some areas. Their activities have hindered development efforts.

Prachanda Prapal: True decentralisation can help address the issues faced by the people. It can provide the necessary support and resources needed to combat the Maoists. However, the government has not taken adequate steps to implement true decentralisation.

It is clear now that the Maoists took another of the Great Leap Forward. They made plans to create a country that would be a model for the rest of South Asia. The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive.

The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive. This is evident in the recent events in Afghanistan, where the Taliban has been able to seize power again.

The comments and observations of Kavre-based NGOs, like the Human Rights Commission, are critical in understanding the situation. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

It is important that the government takes note of the comments and observations of NGOs. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

Sudan Bista: The Maoist movement has affected development in Kavre. Despite the recent end to the war, the Maoists continue to operate in some areas. Their activities have hindered development efforts.

Prachanda Prapal: True decentralisation can help address the issues faced by the people. It can provide the necessary support and resources needed to combat the Maoists. However, the government has not taken adequate steps to implement true decentralisation.

It is clear now that the Maoists took another of the Great Leap Forward. They made plans to create a country that would be a model for the rest of South Asia. The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive.

The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive. This is evident in the recent events in Afghanistan, where the Taliban has been able to seize power again.

The comments and observations of Kavre-based NGOs, like the Human Rights Commission, are critical in understanding the situation. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

It is important that the government takes note of the comments and observations of NGOs. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

Sudan Bista: The Maoist movement has affected development in Kavre. Despite the recent end to the war, the Maoists continue to operate in some areas. Their activities have hindered development efforts.

Prachanda Prapal: True decentralisation can help address the issues faced by the people. It can provide the necessary support and resources needed to combat the Maoists. However, the government has not taken adequate steps to implement true decentralisation.

It is clear now that the Maoists took another of the Great Leap Forward. They made plans to create a country that would be a model for the rest of South Asia. The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive.

The Maoists were able to seize power in 1990 and to rule for a decade, but their policies were ultimately self-destructive. This is evident in the recent events in Afghanistan, where the Taliban has been able to seize power again.

The comments and observations of Kavre-based NGOs, like the Human Rights Commission, are critical in understanding the situation. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.

It is important that the government takes note of the comments and observations of NGOs. They can provide valuable insights into the challenges faced by the people and the government.
Once a “foreign disease”, AIDS is now a Nepali epidemic

For urban Nepali youth, the lure of injectable drugs is increasing, and needles are hard to come by.

KUNDA DIXIT

The result is a dramatic increase in HIV every day, at this rate the number of infected people will grow to 200,000 in the next eight years.

The problem is that 14 Nepalis are infected with HIV every day, at this rate the number of infected people will grow to 200,000 in the next eight years. In Kathmandu Valley alone, 1,400 drug users are infected with HIV.

The result is a dramatic increase in HIV every day, at this rate the number of infected people will grow to 200,000 in the next eight years. In Kathmandu Valley alone, 1,400 drug users are infected with HIV.

AIDS epidemic

The result is a dramatic increase in HIV every day, at this rate the number of infected people will grow to 200,000 in the next eight years. In Kathmandu Valley alone, 1,400 drug users are infected with HIV.

The bastards of war

The lessons of war and everyday life are often simple and similar: equal rights, equal development. For women and men.

The lessons of war and everyday life are often simple and similar: equal rights, equal development. For women and men. After being in denial for many months, the Nepal government distributed thousands of condoms this week. Women and men are to be blamed if they fail to make the process quick. Officials from the Foreign, Home and Finance Ministries are to be blamed if they fail to make the process quick.

Culture of preservation

Cultural communities have to celebrate. They have to find the meanings of exploration and exploration. They have to find the meanings of exploration and exploration. As soon as Afghan history is a litany of crimes against women, the belittling and enslavement of half the population. And it was always done in the name of a religion that actually guarantees a form of equality by insisting on education and enslavement of half the population. And it was always done in the name of a religion that actually guarantees a form of equality by insisting on education and...
In times like these

The peace process that the Maoists started negotiating with the government was extremely important. The Maoists started the negotiations with the government in 1996, with the support of the United Nations, in an attempt to achieve a lasting peace in Nepal. The negotiations were initially successful, and in 1995, the government and the Maoists signed a peace agreement, which was later ratified by both sides. However, the peace process was marred by violence and the government's failure to implement the agreement. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the conflict escalated, leading to the outbreak of the Maoist insurgency in 1996.

The government's inaction and failure to implement the peace agreement caused the Maoists to resume their armed struggle, and the conflict continued for several years. The conflict resulted in the loss of thousands of lives, the displacement of millions of people, and significant damage to the economy and infrastructure of the country. The conflict also had a significant impact on the country's political and social stability.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.

The peace process was ultimately unsuccessful, and the conflict continued for several years. The government and the Maoists continued to negotiate, but the progress was slow, and the conflict continued to escalate. The Maoists continued their armed struggle, and the government's failure to implement the peace agreement allowed the Maoists to gain strength and control over large parts of the country.

The conflict continued until 2006, when the government and the Maoists signed a comprehensive peace agreement, which ended the civil war. The agreement was signed on 21 November 2006, and it was followed by a transitional justice process, which included the establishment of a truth and reconciliation commission.

The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history. The peace process was successful in ending the civil war and brought about a new era of peace and stability. The peace process was also successful in bringing about significant changes in the country's political and social structure. The peace process was a significant achievement, and it marked a turning point in the country's history.
The government must use the army and finish off the Maoists. They only understand violence, they don’t deserve peace talks.

Subodh

Maoists are against the present so-called leaders who amass wealth at the peoples’ expense. The solution is to stop these people. The Maoist objective is not to create trouble but to eliminate corruption. Talking with such corrupt leaders is worthless.

Mike Garg

Our Australian organisation has always promoted Nepal as a country of peace. Things however seem to be changing rapidly, especially since the recent attacks by Maoists. There is a framework in place that, with the support of a majority, can bring about the changes the Maoist are asking for.

Nirendra Shrestha

There is opposition in every country in the world. But the way the Maoists are expressing their opposition is extremely dangerous. Does revolutionary progress mean destroying everything? In that case, the government should be stubborn and resist.

Avash Shah

Definitely they should be disarmed before further talks. If they really want peace, they should do it voluntarily. Nepal cannot be an easy target for the Maoists. They have used terrorism in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

Lasn, has 40,000 subscribers. The magazine lambasts advertising’s effect on popular culture and...
Mero pyaro Kangchenjunga

This is a trek like no other: wilder, wetter, and wondrous.

Day 0: Tseram to Lali Kharka.
The next day starts with a forest trail and slowly gets into moraine country with narrow trails and rock falls. The distances are also long from other ways: although there is plenty of food, the villages are few and far between and you have to depend on your own provisions.

Day 1: Ramche at 4,800m is a trekking highlight.
Ramche at 4,800m is a scenic spot. It is the highest point on the ridge trail. From here you can see down over the valley to the Indian plains.

Day 2: Lhonak is like reaching nirvana and soak in the silence.
Lhonak is like reaching nirvana and soak in the silence and can be treacherous in places because of rockfall. The trail leads up to the farther end of the valley, Jansang Pass to Tibet at 6,100 m.

Day 3: Pangpema, even better.
Pangpema, even better scenery. The views during the walk in the Tamur and Arun watersheds, and far in the distance are Makalu and Everest. On a clear day, you see down to the Indian plains.

Day 4: Day back to Tseram.
Day 5: Mamankhe is a Rai and Limbu village the houses surrounded by barley, millet and cornfields. The local tea-shops have great tongba where you can sip the warm drink with a bamboo straw and chat with locals. It is a peaceful place. During this period, the mountain looms at the head of the valley and has a striking presence.

Day 6: Day leads up to the farther end of the valley.
The valley itself goes on and on. It is a scenic spot.

Day 7: Oktang Valley with blue sheep.
Oktang Valley with blue sheep because of rockfall. The trail leads up to the farther end of the valley, Jansang Pass to Tibet at 6,100 m.

Day 8: Pangpema, even better.
Pangpema, even better scenery. The views during the walk in the Tamur and Arun watersheds, and far in the distance are Makalu and Everest. On a clear day, you see down to the Indian plains.

Day 9: Day back to Tseram.
Day 10: Ramche at 4,800m is a trekking highlight.
Ramche at 4,800m is a scenic spot. It is the highest point on the ridge trail. From here you can see down over the valley to the Indian plains.

Day 11: Lhonak is like reaching nirvana and soak in the silence.
Lhonak is like reaching nirvana and soak in the silence and can be treacherous in places because of rockfall. The trail leads up to the farther end of the valley, Jansang Pass to Tibet at 6,100 m.

Day 12: Dzukuk is like teaching.
Kangchenjunga Sanctuary is perhaps more spectacular. The north face of Kangchenjunga is visible if you are on the ridge trail. From here you can see over the Arun and Tamur rivers, and for the first time, the snow-capped summit of Kangchenjunga is visible. The view is breathtaking.

Day 13: Day leads up to the farther end of the valley.
The valley itself goes on and on. It is a scenic spot.

Day 14: Oktang Valley with blue sheep.
Oktang Valley with blue sheep because of rockfall. The trail leads up to the farther end of the valley, Jansang Pass to Tibet at 6,100 m.

Day 15: Pangpema, even better.
Pangpema, even better scenery. The views during the walk in the Tamur and Arun watersheds, and far in the distance are Makalu and Everest. On a clear day, you see down to the Indian plains.

Day 16: Day leads up to the farther end of the valley.
The valley itself goes on and on. It is a scenic spot.

Day 17: Day leads up to the farther end of the valley.
The valley itself goes on and on. It is a scenic spot.

This is in no way intended to take away from the seriousness of the atrocities and violence that have beset this area. We arrived in the area in mid-October to the news that, for the most part, the places we would be visiting were safe. This is in no way intended to take away from the seriousness of the atrocities and violence that have beset this area.
One more UN office

UNITED NATIONS - UN Secretary General Kofi Annan is creating a new high-level post whose functions include overseeing the entire UN's $10 billion New York headquarters.

The Secretary General today announced the creation of a new position as his chief advisor on the complex, multi-billion dollar office building that dominates the New York skyline.

The new post, the Department of the Secretary General, will be the UN's highest-paid job, with a salary of $300,000 a year.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.

The Secretary General said the new position will be filled by someone with extensive experience in the private sector, preferably in the construction industry.

The new post is expected to be filled within three months.
Another Three Gorges?

BRUSSELS – As the Tabasco oil spill continues to grow in size and extent, a new book adds to speculation that at least 15 countries have been carefully monitoring the development of the US's controversial $33 billion project to build the world's largest hydroelectric dam along the Yangtze River. Britain, France, and Germany are among the countries that have expressed concern about the impact of the project on the environment.

The project, which is scheduled to begin next year, is expected to be one of the largest infrastructure projects in the world. It is designed to generate enough energy to meet the needs of the entire Yangtze River basin, which covers an area of 1.8 million square kilometers. The project is expected to create over 200,000 jobs and generate $11 billion in revenue.

The book, titled “The Forbidden Truth,” contains leaks from internal documents that detail the project’s potential impact on the global environment. The book also reveals that the project’s design is similar to the controversial Three Gorges Dam, which was completed in 2003 and has been criticized for its environmental impact.

The book’s author, a former employee of the US Army Corps of Engineers, claims that the project could have a catastrophic impact on the Yangtze River basin, leading to flooding, soil erosion, and the loss of biodiversity.

The project has been controversial since its inception, with many environmentalists and indigenous communities opposing it. The book’s publication comes at a time when the project is facing increased scrutiny from domestic and international stakeholders.

The book contains a foreword by a former member of the US Senate who has been a vocal critic of the project. The foreword states that the book is a wake-up call for the international community to take action to prevent the project from going ahead.

The book is available for pre-order on Amazon and other online retailers.

Political, Social, Change Adviser

With a leadership that is increasingly concerned about the country’s economic and social development, Nepal is facing a challenging period. The political instability, corruption, and lack of accountability have contributed to a decline in public trust in the government.

Despite these challenges, the government has been taking steps to improve governance and develop the economy. The government has launched several initiatives to improve infrastructure development, support small and medium-sized enterprises, and increase foreign investment.

In order to achieve these goals, the government has established a national development council that comprises top officials from various government agencies. The council is responsible for driving the implementation of national policies and strategies.

With the help of international organizations and donors, the government has been able to secure funding for several projects. The government has also been working with the private sector to attract more investment.

In addition to these efforts, the government has been focusing on education and health initiatives. The government has increased spending on education and health, and has launched several programs to improve access to these services.

The government has also been working to improve governance and reduce corruption. The government has implemented several measures to increase transparency and accountability, including the establishment of anti-corruption bodies and the implementation of whistleblower protection laws.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s economic performance. The government has been working to attract foreign investment and has implemented several measures to improve the business environment.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s infrastructure. The government has been working to expand the country’s road network and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of public transportation.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the country’s electricity generation capacity and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s electricity transmission network.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to attract more tourists and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s energy sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s energy and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s energy infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s tourism sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s tourism and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s tourism infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s social services. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s social services and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s social services infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s education sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s education and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s education infrastructure.

The government has also been working to improve the country’s health sector. The government has been working to increase the quality of the country’s health and has implemented several programs to improve the quality of the country’s health infrastructure.
The cost of peace

By DOROTHY M. MOORE

The cost of peace may be the most expensive, but the cost of war is incalculable. For that reason, it is legitimate to demand peace as a matter of principle.

Maoist\'s mistake

The Maoist\'s mistake was in not realizing that the existing political power structure would not be phased out without a fight. The Maoists should have known that the existing political power structure would not be phased out without a fight.

Necessary evil

Although the cost of war is incalculable, it is necessary to fight in order to protect the existing political power structure. The existing political power structure is the only one that can provide a stable society.

The cost of peace

The cost of peace may be the most expensive, but the cost of war is incalculable. For that reason, it is legitimate to demand peace as a matter of principle.

Maoist\'s mistake

The Maoist\'s mistake was in not realizing that the existing political power structure would not be phased out without a fight. The Maoists should have known that the existing political power structure would not be phased out without a fight.

Necessary evil

Although the cost of war is incalculable, it is necessary to fight in order to protect the existing political power structure. The existing political power structure is the only one that can provide a stable society.
Eating Out

Eating Out

For immediate hire

Himalayan Mountain Bikes—Tours and Expeditions.
New and reconditioned mountain bikes for sale.
Available. Second hand bikes bought/sold/hired.

For immediate hire

Himalayan Mountain Bikes—Tours and Expeditions.
New and reconditioned mountain bikes for sale.
Available. Second hand bikes bought/sold/hired.

Himalayan Feelings Fusion band every Friday night with full safari dinner and complimentary wine or beer for adults, soft drink for children. Saturdays 7.30PM-10PM. 180, Baber Mahal. 220735

Shirley Varghese

The Jazz Commission on Thursdays, Chris Masand’s Latin band on Fridays and on Saturdays Avanti Fm. TM restaurant, Shanku Haat, 432299

Low music: Tuesday and Friday nights at the 4320-3 PM Rana, Kumal Phokhara. 3:35PM-5:00PM, Saturdays at 3:35PM, 434300

Buffalo and Thai buffet dinner every Friday with the band Las Sarzanas, Tansen, 220720, Saturdays children under Rs 200. Tuesdays evening. Summit Hotel, Sangan, 501919

To have a beer in the village, the chowki in front of the old house or on the steps of the village temple. Monday, every Tuesday except Tuesday. 1PM-7PM, the Everest Hotel, Namche Bazaar, 53300

Kingfisher Beer Please note, however, that the beer is served cold and is not boiled. The Everest Hotel, Namche Bazaar, 53300

Dine in style with seafood and ethnic dishes from around the world. The restaurant of the Imperial Palace every Sunday. Hotel Shangri-La, 431390

The Kathmandu Madhatter factory is a dismal slum, where you feel like a hundred of workers (mostly striking up to the class of the small, Rs 400-Rs 1,000 a day). That this industry, which sells ready-to-wear to middle-class Nepali image internationally and enjoys the fame of many Nepalis, is dying out, is a true reminder of the epitaph of life and death.
Under My Hat

by Kunda Dixit

One helluva move

As the nation is struggling to cope with an energy crisis, the question of how to manage the shortage of cooking gas is on everyone’s mind. The government has announced that it will import more cooking gas, but many people are skeptical about the effectiveness of this measure.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is being transparent in its decision-making?

A: The government needs to be more accountable and answerable to the public. It should provide clear information about its plans and actions.

Q: What can we do to encourage the government to be more transparent?

A: We can demand accountability and demand that the government be transparent in its decisions and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What can we do to encourage the government to prioritize the energy needs of the people?

A: We can demand that the government prioritize the energy needs of the people and make sure that they are not left behind.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.

Q: What are some ways in which the government can address the energy crisis?

A: The government can focus on energy conservation, encouraging the use of alternative energy sources, and promoting energy efficiency.

Q: How can we ensure that the government is using the imported cooking gas effectively?

A: We need to monitor the distribution of cooking gas and make sure that it reaches those who need it most.

Q: What can we do to ensure that the government is not profiteering from the energy crisis?

A: We can demand that the government be transparent and accountable in its decision-making and actions.

Q: What role can community groups play in addressing the energy crisis?

A: Community groups can play a crucial role in raising awareness about the energy crisis and encouraging people to use cooking gas responsibly.